7 chefs raise money for 7 charitable organizations on Dec. 7th

December 1st, 2010 1:50 pm ET

CHARLESTOWN, MA - It's a trio of lucky sevens when seven chefs get together December 7 from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the McGladrey Culinary Challenge for Charity to raise funds for seven charitable organizations with which they will be paired.

One hundred percent of gross proceeds will go to Boys & Girls Clubs of Boston, The Genesis Fund, Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries, The Jewish National Fund, The Lenny Zakim Fund, Boston Police Activities League and Special Olympics.

In addition, the group paired with the winning chef will receive an additional donation from McGladrey and the McGladrey New England Charitable Foundation, an employee-managed foundation that supports the communities in which employees live and work.

Guests will enjoy the fare of well-known chefs taking part, including Anthony Caturano, Prezza; Chris Damian, Legendary Restaurant Group; Dante deMagistris, Restaurant dante; Frank McClelland, L'Espalier; Jeff Nace, Neptune Oyster; Jason Santos, Gargoyles on the Square and Lydia Shire, Towne.

Many of the chefs have recruited local media personalities to be their sous chefs at the event, among them, Billy Costa and Natalie Jacobson.

Caturano and Company recently merged with the McGladrey brand which is a leading provider of assurance, tax and consulting.
