Cambridge —

Two Cambridge residents were recently named to the Boys and Girls Club of Boston's board of directors.

Meredith Clark Shachoy is a Partner at CMS Partners where she oversees and manages family assets and investments for high net worth families. Shachoy previously was part of a five-person Boston Private Wealth Management team at Goldman, Sachs & Co. that managed over $2 billion in assets, including personal investments and assets for families and foundations. She previously worked for Arthur Anderson in their financial and retail business consulting practice. Her career began at Aldi Foods, supervising the personnel and management of six supermarkets throughout the Chicago area.

Shachoy has served on Boys & Girls Clubs of Boston's Board of Overseers, most recently as its Chair. She also serves as an Overseer at the Boston Children's Museum, is on the BB&N Parent Fund Executive Committee, is on the Cornell University President's Council of Cornell Women, and is a Cornell University Council member.

Shachoy obtained her Bachelor's degree from Cornell University and graduated from the MIT Sloan School of Management with a master's degree in Business Administration. She currently lives in West Cambridge with her husband, Chris, and their three children.

Herbert S. Wagner III is a Managing Director of The Baupost Group, an investment organization that manages $20 billion in assets. In this role, he manages Baupost's Public Investment Group, overseeing all corporate and mortgage debt, structured products and equity investments. He is a member of the company's Management Committee. Prior to joining Baupost, Mr. Wagner worked at Appaloosa Management L.P., Putnam Investments, and the First National Bank of Chicago (now JPMorgan Chase).

Wagner earned a Bachelor's degree in Accounting and Finance with honors from Miami University, and his M.B.A. with honors from the University of Chicago. He currently resides in Cambridge with his wife and three children.
