

Quarterback couture: No. 12 livens up Zegna opening

By Jill Radsken / Seen | Wednesday, September 21, 2011 | <http://www.bostonherald.com> | Lifestyle

Sports and fashion usually don't mix — but don't tell the guests at last night's opening of Ermenegildo Zegna's Copley Place boutique.

Zegna invited its best customers for an evening of shopping and nibbling on sauteed scallops, filet of beef and squash blossoms — with proceeds going to The Boys & Girls Club of Boston. But partygoers scored a touchdown as the guest of honor, Patriots [team stats] quarterback Tom Brady [stats], posed for pictures and signed autographs.

Said Pats owner Robert Kraft's son, Josh, president of The Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston:

"I used to dress like Kurt Cobain. Now we're in the big leagues."
